B6.6. Explanation and principal reasons for adoption

In the Plan, tangata whenua are called Mana Whenua to be consistent with the particular meaning of 'mana whenua group' as defined in the Local Government (Auckland Council) Act 2009.

In making and implementing the Plan, the Council must, as a matter of national importance, recognise and provide for the relationship of Mana Whenua and their culture and traditions with their ancestral lands, water, sites, wāhi tapu and other taonga. The Council must also:

- have particular regard to kaitiakitanga;
- take into account the principles of Treaty of Waitangi/Te Tiriti o Waitangi; and
- recognise the historic, traditional, cultural, and spiritual relationship of Mana Whenua with the Hauraki Gulf/Te Moana Nui o Toi/Tīkapa Moana.

In the policies relating to partnerships, the Council acknowledges the importance of the Treaty and Treaty settlements to Mana Whenua and recognises the aspirations of Mana Whenua. These policies promote meaningful relationships and interactions between Mana Whenua and decision-makers as part of recognising the principles of the Treaty, including greater Mana Whenua participation in resource management through the establishment of joint management arrangements and the transfer of powers over particular resources to Mana Whenua. These policies identify how Treaty settlements should be taken into account in resource management processes, and outline a process for the Council to work with Mana Whenua as claims under the Treaty are settled, to determine appropriate planning outcomes for Treaty Settlement Land.

In the policies relating to Mana Whenua values, the Unitary Plan seeks to ensure that resource management processes in Auckland are informed by Mana Whenua perspectives, including their values, mātauranga and tikanga. Mana Whenua perspectives need to be considered early within resource management processes, accorded status in decision-making and have an opportunity to influence outcomes.

A number of iwi and hapū in Auckland have developed iwi planning documents (also known as Iwi Management Plans, Hapū Environmental Management Plans, or by similar names) which articulate their specific resource management issues, objectives, policies, and methods. Iwi planning documents are a valuable source of information for integrating mātauranga and tikanga into resource management in Auckland.

These policies also seek to give certainty to, and enhance, the involvement of Mana Whenua in resource management processes. Significant adverse effects on ancestral tāonga occur largely as a result of uninformed actions. Before making decisions which may affect customary rights, an understanding of the nature of the tāonga to Mana Whenua is required. This understanding can only be gained from those who have an ancestral relationship with the taonga.

These policies give guidance on how Mana Whenua values, mātauranga and tikanga should be considered in the management of, and decision-making around, Auckland's natural and physical environments, including freshwater and freshwater ecosystems in accordance with the National Policy Statement on Freshwater Management 2014.

The policies in relation to economic, social and cultural development acknowledge that Māori have identified a wide range of activities they would like to undertake to support social, cultural and economic development. These activities include:

- establishing and extending papakāinga and marae and associated services;
- developing commercial activities, sports and recreation facilities and community gardens;
- cultural activities and iwi/hapū revitalisation activities such as historic heritage and environmental management.

Economic activities are necessary to support the ability of Mana Whenua to use and live on Māori land. Some economic activities may be based on promoting Māori culture, or utilising customary rights such as aquaculture. These policies recognise there is little Māori land remaining in Auckland and that it is also necessary to provide for Mana Whenua and mataawaka to support their aspirations through development on land held in general title.

The integration of mātauranga and tikanga in design and development may be expressed in development that, for example, is based around communal facilities and spaces, provides a range of housing sizes and layouts, or responds to the values of Mana Whenua associated with the site or landscape.

Mataawaka represent a significant proportion of the Māori population of Auckland and have the desire to connect to their culture and traditions in an urban setting. The interests of mataawaka are addressed in the Unitary Plan through providing for Māori cultural institutions and through a special purpose zone. These tools recognise rangatiratanga and the right of all Māori to express their Māoritanga, as affirmed by articles 2 and 3 of the Treaty.

The policy approach to Mana Whenua cultural heritage addresses the multiple levels of Mana Whenua cultural heritage. Sites and places where a value of significance has been identified are protected through the D21 Sites and Places of Significance to Mana Whenua Overlay. Assessments of effects on the environment which pay particular attention to potential cultural effects based on history and tikanga are expected for areas subject to structure planning to identify additional sites that warrant protection. Similar assessments are required for resource consent applications where Mana Whenua values are affected.

For reasons such as limited investment, cultural sensitivities and mismanagement of information in the past, very little Mana Whenua cultural heritage has been scheduled despite the large number of Mana Whenua groups with strong associations to Auckland. The Council has a statutory responsibility to protect Mana Whenua cultural heritage from inappropriate subdivision, use and development. This will involve a collaborative approach with Mana Whenua, working in accordance with tikanga to identify, assess, protect and manage Mana Whenua cultural heritage, including the context for individual sites and places which are the footprint/tapu wae of Mana Whenua.

The knowledge base of information about Mana Whenua cultural heritage is continually developing and tools that provide a form of protection and inform subdivision, use and development while respecting Mana Whenua values are increasingly valuable. An improved knowledge base helps reduce the risk of damage, enables development that properly reflects the values associated with the context of an area, informs land owners and applicants of the characteristics of their site, and helps to avoid major time and cost implications to applicants when development is halted by accidental discovery of protected items.
